Congress To-day.

SENATE .- Mr. SEWARD presented the resolutions of the legislature of New York against the extension of Woodworth's patent.

Mr. RHETT presented petitions from Charleston, and Mr. SUMNER from Massachusetts, asking that additional aid be given to the Collins line.

Numerous memorials against the extension of Woodworth's patent; and on a variety of private

On motion of Mr. SHIELDS, the joint resolution making an appropriation for the completion of the wings of the Capitol was taken up. It had been amended by the House so as to appropriate $500,000. The question on concurring in the amendment was debated by Messrs. BORLAND and Mangun; and it was postponed till tomorrow.

The Iowa land bill was then taken up

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES .- Mr. JOHNSON, of Arkansas, introduced a resolution authorizing the doorkeeper to employ three additional pages. This was rejected, when that gentleman moved a reconsideration of the vote. After debate, the question was decided in the affirmative. Yeas 94, nays 81.

The resolution was modified, authorizing the appointment of two pages, and then passed.

Nr. Phelps called up the question of privilege arising on the presentation by him, a few days ago, of a memorial of N. W. Reynolds, contesting the right of Mr. WEIGHTMAN to a seat on the floo as a delegate from New Mexico; and he proceeded to advert to the charge made in the memoria against Governor Calhoun, of using corrupt in fluences in favor of Mr. Weightman's election.

Mr. WEIGHTMAN replied, defending Governo

Schools-Public and Private.

There is a prosperous state of things at present in most of our schools-prosperous for both pupils and teachers, We perceive that the Union Academy, New York Avenue; the Rittenhouse Academy, Indiana Avenue; the Central Academy 10th and E streets; and the Classical, Mathemat ical and Commercial Institute, Carusi's lower Saloon, are all well attended and eminently popular; as are others of our well-known institutions.

In the schools for misses preparations are already making for the May-day celebration, and we shall of course again behold the pretty pageant. But we cannot help thinking the cool salutation usually given by the first of May should induce the postponement of all ceromonies of welcome till even the last of May.

Our public schools are doing well, but they are much neglected by the intelligent and influential citizens who could do so much in the way of giving them encouragement. We would sugges to the trustees that it would be well if they would by invitation secure to each school two or three visits in every week. These visits gratify the teachers and pupils alike, and create in their hearts a desire for the approbation of their visiters, and thus supply them with a new motive for exertion.

We owe much to the trustees for their labor of love, and feel sure that if our suggestion shall appear to them of utility they will not be likely to disregard it. A little printed circular of invitation, prepared by the secretary, would be useful in carrying out this idea.

Southern Manufactories.

Advices from Europe evidence the important fact that the samples of cotton yarn forwarded from Georgia and South Carolina to the continent have been pronounced equal to the English yarns; and it has been confidently asserted that they can be manufactured and shipped to Europe in successful competion, as to price, with the latter.

When it is recollected that England now finds a market for her yarns on the continent of $35,-000,000 annually, some idea of the importance of this triumph of Southern enterprise may be formed, together with its consequences.

Our information is obtained from the foreign correspondence of responsible European parties familiar with the trade, and whose letters have just been exhibited to us by a highly respectable citizen of the South.

Spiritual Rappings.

The gentleman at whose dwelling these things are said to have occurred, resides near the Navy Yard, and is employed in that establishment. Hundreds of persons of late nightly fill and surround his house. We are informed that he is determined to prosecute to the utmost an examination of the subject, but that his family, either alarmed at the manifestations or fatigued by excitement, have gone to Alexandria to abide for a time with some of their friends. A child four years old has been said to be the medium. Will the spirits follow her, or are they local spirits?

P. S .- We to-day learn that with the depart- rence.

ure of the family the rappings have ceased. National Theatre.

Miss Davenport this evening commences a reengagement. She had a splendid benefit on Wednesday. A banquet will be given at Carusi's Saturday night. Mr. P. W. BROWNING, merchant tailor, is ready for his many customers, and they know him well. His new stock comprehends the catalogue of all that a gentleman can need in the way of dress.

· Why Smithsonian? Smithson is shorter and better. We do not say Washingtonian monument, Jacksonian statue, Websteronion painting, Franklinonian Institute. Why Smithsonian?

Mrs. Buckley, a temperance missionary and authoress, delivered a lecture at Temperance Hall last night, and a clever one it was too. She will probably lecture again on Sunday night next.

What an improvement new wall paper makes in a house; and yet it costs but little. See Mr. Clarke's advertisement. He has splendid window shades, &c., also,

"To My Sister F. H.," on our first page, is a sweet poem, breathing words as gentle as the hind every now and then.

A Humane Suggestion.

That useful, patient, and kindly animal, the horse, deserves tender treatment at our hands. We have deprived him of his natural liberty, and given him a hard task to perform; and while he willingly submits to this, and knows and respects his master, it is the least that master can do in return to give him good food and shelter, and to protect him from disease. Self-interest would of course call upon us to do this; but so should a more honorable motive. And yet it is not done. In disease the horse is left almost entirely to the cruel care of ignorant quacks, and he often suffers the severest penalties. A case in point has just come under our notice. A handsome animal was found afflicted with the lampas-a spongy enlargement of the roof of the mouth. An astringent wash, it is said, will cure this affection; but, as this involves trouble, it is usual to send the animal to a blacksmith, who gags him, ties his head to a post, and with a heated bar of iron, burns out the enlarged growth! On the occasion to which we refer, after this kind of cauterizing, the smith thought it best to bleed the crisped part, which he attempted to do with a shoe-nail beaten to a point; but he hammered it too thin, and the point broke off in the flesh, or possibly in the bone of the arch of the mouth.

The profession of a farrier and veterinary surgeon should be respected and encouraged in every community. It is discreditable to any town or city not to have one or more of such practiciens in its midst. In this respect we are far behind the wise usages of old England, and of almost all parts of Europe.

Our Alexandria friends are informed that of those who visit them on the Sabbath, from this city, many are gentlemen, and that we will be responsible for their good conduct; but that as there are occasional exceptions, it would be well for the police of that city to overlook both them and the grog-selling places to which they obtain access. The ladies on board the Washington, and the captain thereof, were yesterday afflicted with the presence of some very badly-behaved youths and young men on the return passage. On the arrival of the Washington at our wharf, there were for a time strong indications of a riot, and probably would have been, had not the weaker party prudently retreated in time. Would it not be well for the police of this city to give attention to the ferry-wharves on Sunday? There may be some passengers who do not fancy the conduct of drunken and licentious youths.

The "Pennsylvania Freeman," an Abolition paper, published in Philadelphia, takes us would mob and maltreat them, and burn the supposable case.

Three barrels of a revolver were last evening fired into the front window of Mrs. Little's boarding house, on C street, at her daughter Virginia, aged about 17 or 18 years. She fortunately escaped unhurt.

The person who did this deed was a Mr. G. young man, about 20 years old. It is said that he addressed Miss Little some time since, but that there has been some estrangement or alienation of late; that he was in fact a rejected suitor. This is the common rumor.

We doubt not that Mr. Kirby will be arrested and punished. He can plead no prerogative, no license for assassination!

Stanley's Indian Gallery of Portraits. The "National Intelligencer" of this morning well says that " the sight of these paintings produces in most, if not in all, minds the desire that they should become the property of the public, and be placed, together with other paintings of a similar character, and the Indian curiosities already owned by the government, in some capacious and well-lighted room, where they could be viewed and enjoyed by the people." We believe this idea of duty is daily gaining upon the public mind. Time, indeed, is it to treasure up every possible memento of this remarkable and certainly-expiring race.

Incendiarism.

The carpenter-shop of Mr. Wm. Wilson, corner of H and 20th streets, was fired at 9 o'clock last night; but Rev. C. A. Davis and his son, residing in the neighborhood, fortunately detected the flames in time to extinguish them.

At 11 o'clock the Western Market-house was fired, and totally destroyed. The only loss, besides the building, of which we are informed, is that of Mr. John Caldwell, who had about $50 worth of bacon in his stall.

Mr. John Corcoran heard the voices of men in the market-house a short time before the occur-

St. Patrick's Day.

This anniversary will be celebrated by the sons of Ireland and many others in this city on usages, they have not failed to give many proofs of their ardent devotion to the land of their adoption. While, therefore, we honor them for the latter, we can well afford to rejoice with them on the recurrence of an occasion endeared to them by the affectionate remembrances of the past.

National Printing Office.

The Lancaster "Express" very truly says that an establishment of this kind "is much needed, in order to facilitate the printing of public documents, and to do away with squabbling and partisan cabals about the matter, by which our national councils have been disgraced, and the public money squandered." This is saying much in little. It tells the whole story. It is the common-sense view, and it will be well for legislators to look into it as early as practicable.

The complaint is general, and the complaint is just, that Congress is passing away its time in doing nothing .- Baltimore Patriot.

Too much talk is the evil. If legislative business had been before the House on Thursday, The Baltimore papers of last Saturday there would have been no row. Our resolution came on galloping to-day. They take a fit of the is the only cure. Will not the people of the weather did just as it pleased, in point of fact. So country take it up, and adopt it immediately?

Law and Order.

MESSES. Entrons: You appear determined to hold others to accountability for the faithful performance of their duty with respect to seeing the laws enforced. Now, sirs, there are not a few who have determined to hold you to your duty. We have long needed a journal with courage and fearlessness enough to speak out in defence of the right-to call for the enforcement of law and order—to set a proper value upon the character of this city, and of the nation. You are now our sentinels; and while we rejoice thereat, we are determined to both keep you to the point and to stand by you in the good work.

You have determined that the Grand Jury shall take hold of certain cases of assault, bat-tery, mayhem, &c. There are more cases than you have pointed out. Permit us to ask if any listinctions are to be made either by you or the MANY CITIZENS. Grand Jury?

We reply that this is far from our wishes. Poward no offending person, in any case that can come under the cognizance of the legal guardians of this community, have we a shadow of unkind feeling. We have no motive that can possibly induce the least discrimination. But each case is as well known to the Grand Jury as to us, and that body has the power to summon witnesses before them. Our duty is simply to make a public appeal to them to do so, and, in the event of their failing to comply, to ask, in behalf of the people, why?

If we do not greatly mistake the indications of public opinion, the determination is formed to have the laws enforced. Plain and ignorant men are daily condemned in our courts for offences less flagrant than have of late been committed by men of intelligence and position. Has it already come to pass that the wealthy and influential-Senators, Representatives, and the recipients of high Presidential appointmentsmay trample upon the laws with impunity, and render the Capitol of the United States a reproach to our common country? We trust not. We trust it shall yet appear that each citizen has a better means of vengeance and protection than a resort to his rifle to repel or to revenge the attack of every ruffianly assailant.

There may be those who think we magnify this matter. If so, the effect of familiarity with the evils complained of is but too lamentably apparent. The time was when it would not be conidered an overstrained matter to ask a Grand Jury in Washington to perform their duty, nor are there now many who so think. There can be no shirking or shrinking. The alternative is LAW OF BLOODSHED. We prefer the law. What is the people's choice?

Comfort in Churches.

We believe that in most of the old churches of up very tartly because we have expressed the Europe seats were deemed superfluities, and opinion that the social condition of the negro at worshippers managed for themselves as well as the North is not very pleasant or desirable; and, they could. Modern improvement has not only to test the fact, suggests that the "infernal" fugi- reformed this, but given us very comfortable tive law be repealed and the slaves permitted to cushioned seats and carpeted footstools. This is choose slavery in the South or freedom in the not objected to now-a-days, we believe, though North, that we may see which way the tide of we doubt not there was a time when such innoemigration will run. Past experience serves to vation was opposed with vehemence. Indeed, so instruct us on this subject. Ohio, Indiana and long have we given universal assent to the usage, Pennsylvania would be prompt to refuse an that we think it is high time to start something asylum to their sable brethren, while Philadelphia new. What shall it be? Gas lights are orthodox; so are sloping backs; so are desks for the miscrable habitations to which alone they could books; so are marble pulpits; so are hot-air find access. The "Freeman" does not suggest a furnaces. Here we have it! Our churches need ventilation sadly. The air we breathe becomes very bad, and no amount of piety and interest can keep the head from growing heavy. The furnace should always be supplied with fresh air from outside the building, and in warm weather such a current should be continual.

Would a drink of cool water be wholly out of place during the two or three hours devoted to Kirby, who has not yet been arrested. He is a prayer, singing, and preaching? What! drink water in church? Whoever heard of such a thing? Absurd!

Is it, indeed? Now, we do not happen to think with you; and if it would enable people to sing, think, and listen any better, we should regard it as the next best thing to a good organ.

But how are you going to provide it you have a dozen water-carriers going through the congregation in the time of service? We think even that would not be so very far beyond carrying the purst around : but yet it might be avoided. A cistern, containing a few barrels of water well iced, might send a tube through all the pews of a church, and in each pew might be a tap, a tumbler, and a waste-pipe, all at a very trifling expense; and thus the general supply would effectually prevent even the slightest com-

Ridiculous! Ah, indeed? We don't think so; but we do think it ridiculous for a whole congregation of, unfortunately, not a very large proportion of stout and strong people, to endure oppressive heat and thirstiness for so long a time, when so slight an expense would produce so much relief.

They who unite the idea of penance with their devotions-and we allude to them in no spirit of disrespect-may find a reason for withholding so rational and desirable a gratification; but we do not think that others can. The aversion to novelty, the fear of innovation, the idea that taking a drink of water is too familiar and undignified, may induce many to object to the proposition; but after the first respectable congregation adopts it, the rest will follow, like a flock of sheep behind their bell-wether.

The Franklin House.

Mr. Kavanagh, of Baltimore, the proprietor of this house, damaged by fire a month or two since, is raising the walls up four stories. Mr. Thomas Baker, an accommodating and obliging host, will again occupy it. His table is always well supplied, and his chambers are neat and comfort-

AMERICAN SETLL.

America, during the nineteenth century, has produced fore remarkable discoveries than all the other nations of the world combined. In chemistry, the most celebrated and skilful chemists, the most wise and successful physiians, either in ancient or modern times, have not produced uch an extraordinary remedy as Radway's Ready Relief, which stops the most severe pains in a few seconds and cures the cause quickly. Radway & Co. are the first and only chemists in the universe that have succeeded in giving to the world a remedy possessing such quick and marvellous virtues. In every instance, no matter how severe the pain nay be, Radway's Ready Relief will, in a few minutes, re leve the most painful paroxysm. It has cured Rheuma-ism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Diarrhœs, Stiff Joints, Sick and Veryous Headache, in from fifteen minutes to four hours. et those who suffer try it. At his old stand under the United States Hotel,

BEGS leave to notify his customers, members of Congress, and the public, that he has just received his usual large supply of Spring Goods. From his Goods, he flatters himself that his stock will afford extra inlucements for those to patronize him who will favor him with a call. He can well apply the old adage, "Goods well bought are haif sold." His sim will be to give general sarfaction by selling a first-rate article at a moderate price.
He returns his thanks to members of Cougress for their liberal patronage during the past winter, and respectfully colicits their calls this spring.
